Thinking of all of you and sending love and condolences.

Tribute from Dale and Colleen McDermit

Relation: Friend of family

Acknowledging this loss for all of Mrs Hassett's family and her friends, and appreciating the gratitude expressed for the blessings and strength and grace over many experiences in a full life. The love of a mother and grandmother is precious.

Tribute from Paula Young

Sending my condolences to all of you. Your mom sounds like a wonderful woman .

Tribute from Marvin and Joy Sheets

Relation: Friends

Sincere condolence Michael, James and Lois and all the family in the loss of your Mom.

Tribute from Shelley Rogge

Relation: Long long time family friend via my grandmother Carlson.

Through out all the years from a young child up growing I was very fortunate to have been able to spend time with Dolly. Dolly was always the kindest loving person towards me and others that I ever knew, and her smile was always so comforting.

Tribute from Orin and Shirley Grovum

Relation: A friendship formed because of knowing most of Dolly's sons.

Our condolences to all the family that Dolly leaves behind.

Tribute from Raymond and Laraine McGavigan

Relation: Got to know her through her sons

Even though we didn't meet often, visiting with Dolly was like being with an old friend. Her sons are a credit to her.

Mike,

I was saddened to hear about the passing of your Mom. However I was sad only for the grief that you are enduring right now. I'm not sad for Dolly because she is with our Father. And she is very comfortable now.

We did not know your Mom. And I have only met you once at Uncle Darrel Turner's funeral. But that doesn't matter. We're one Church. And one with Christ.

The Bible reminds us in Isaiah 41:10, "Fear not, for I am with you; be not dismayed, for I am your God; I will strengthen you, I will help you, I will uphold you with my righteous right hand."

Mike, grief is a crazy animal!

It's akin to tossing a pebble into a pond.

The moment that pebble is thrown into the pond of water there are waves that travel toward the shoreline where you're standing at right now.

That's grief right now! Immediately. It just washes over you and makes you feel like you can barely surface for air.

As time passes those waves turn into ripples in the water as they travel toward the shoreline.

That's grief after some weeks, months and even years have passed.

You're in the waves right now.

Eventually you'll be in the ripples.

You'll be visiting with someone, or preparing for a meeting, or doing laundry or shopping in the grocery store and all of a sudden there will be a ripple and you'll have a brief moment of grief. It'll pass in a moment and then you'll think to yourself "What just happened, why do I feel so upset?"

There isn't just a "hope" to see Dolly again. God has promised us that you will be reunited with Dolly again.

We're not operating and living our lives "on a wing and a prayer." We're operating and living our lives by the grace that God has given to us all and by the salvation that Jesus has afforded to each of us through his death on the cross for our past, present and future sin.

Mike, I've lifted you up in prayer right now and for the past 45 minutes. And I will continue to pray for you going forward.

Much love to you,
Brendon and Wendy Turner
